

Safe Skies® Luggage Locks Inks Exclusive Agreement with Australian Customs and Border Protection Service to Offer Travelers Peace of Mind

Agreement with Australian Customs and Border Protection Service (ACBPS) enables security officers to open and relock bags using Safe Skies Locks

New York – April 30, 2014 – Safe Skies, the leader in worldwide travel lock technology and provider of the industry’s most comprehensive selection of luggage locks, announces an exclusive agreement with the Australian Customs and Border Protection Service (ACBPS) to become the recognized and accepted luggage locks for travelers to, from, and within Australia.

The agreement allows ACBPS to open and relock bags that use Safe Skies Locks when screening officers need to conduct a physical inspection, and reassures passengers that their locks will be intact when they arrive at their destination. Safe Skies Locks display the proprietary torch symbol and is the only luggage lock in the world protected by multiple patents, including US Patent No. 8,145,576 recognizing the innovation behind TSA-accepted locks and Australian patents 2009238233 and 2004289946.

“This agreement unifies security standards across multiple security agencies and gives travelers even more freedom to travel the world without luggage safety concerns,” says David Tropp, Founder of Safe Skies. “Our goal is to provide peace of mind for both travelers and security officers with patent protected methods and the industry’s largest selection of locks.”

ALSO ACCEPTED AND RECOGNIZED BY

AUSTRALIAN CUSTOMS & BORDER PROTECTION SERVICE

ALSO ACCEPTED AND RECOGNIZED BY

CANADIAN AIR TRANSPORT SECURITY AUTHORITY

Safe Skies offers the industry's largest selection of combination locks, padlocks and luggage straps, and is already recognized and accepted by the United States Transportation Security Administration (TSA), Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs of the United Kingdom, Canadian Air Transport Security Authority (CATSA) and Zurich Airport Police and Zurich Airport Customs Inspectorate.

Safe Skies Locks allow baggage screening officers to easily identify it, open it, and re-lock the luggage if a physical inspection is required when the passenger is not present. All Safe Skies Luggage Locks come with a lifetime warranty and a hassle-free replacement policy in case the lock is clipped by mistake or damaged during travel.

For more information about Safe Skies Locks, visit www.SafeSkiesLocks.com.

About Safe Skies

Founded in 2005, Safe Skies is the only luggage lock company protected by US Patents 7,021,537, 7,036,728, 8,145,576. Our locks are accepted and recognized by the United States Transportation Security Administration (TSA), Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs of the United Kingdom, Canadian Air Transport Security Authority (CATSA) and the Zurich Airport Police and Zurich Airport Customs Inspectorate. Distinctively highlighted by the torch logo, Safe Skies luggage locks allow luggage screeners to safely inspect your luggage without clipping the lock. Safe Skies products, including TSA accepted padlocks, combination locks, cable locks and luggage straps are available worldwide, including Canada, Japan, Germany, Argentina, United Kingdom, Ireland, Indonesia, Singapore, Australia, Panama and the United States.

###

Contact:

David Tropp
Safe Skies LLC
dtropp@aol.com

Tommy Mermelshtayn
Safe Skies (Australia)
tmermelsthayn@safeskies.com.au

Pedro Chen
Max Borges Agency
pedrochen@maxborgesagency.com